SUNDAY REFLECTION

This Sunday marks the formal end of our Christmas season. Jesus' early life is now sufficiently celebrated. His public life comes next, and his baptism — today — begins it.

I know, I know, Christmas has been over for ages now and we are making ready for easter eggs or something like that. But the Church has good sense and lets us celebrate Christmas for a large number of weeks after it happens instead of just ripping down decorations and going on to the next thing. Good for the Church.

So, what about Jesus' public life? In the Gospel we hear the voice of God the Father speaking to Jesus. This only happens twice in the Gospels, and both times it is the same message.

“You are my beloved Son; in you I am well pleased”
Why? God is like a parent watching his teenager's growing pains. Help all you can, but definitely do not try to stop the growing. Suffering and temptation confront us always, and they present the urgent need to grow, to broaden our scope, to understand better what love is, to see that love does not mean God taking charge and making everything alright but rather it means him staying with the beloved, continuing to love and admire that special one, no matter what is grinding him down.

So this is what Jesus actually had heard at the Jordan. Receive love that never runs away, never lets go, even in the desert, even on the cross.

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK

A wife invited some people to dinner. At the table, she turned to their six-year-old daughter and said: "Would you like to say the blessing?" "I wouldn't know what to say," the girl replied. "Just say what you hear Mommy say," the wife answered. The daughter bowed her head and said, "Lord, why on earth did I invite all these people for dinner?"

AVVISI ITALIANI

Battesimo Del Signore

10 gennaio 2010

Celebriamo oggi il mistero del battesimo di Gesù nel fiume Giordano. Il Padre lo proclama suo Figlio diletto. Chiediamo al Padre di concedere a tutti noi di vivere come fedeli imitatori del suo Figlio, per potere con lui salire alla gloria.
